

THE POWER OF

RADIO

TO EDUCATE, ADVOCATE, ORGANIZE

OPPORTUNITY

We are approaching a historic opportunity for a dramatic expansion of civil society into the media landscape. Changes in federal law are swiftly moving through Congress that would allow thousands of non-profit groups to apply for low power community radio licenses, locating them in major urban areas in the first time.

CHALLENGE

The FCC will announce the opportunity for radio licenses a few months in advance and only take applications for 5 days. Applications require technical assistance. Therefore, it is imperative that groups are prepared to apply well in advance. It is likely this will be the last chance for groups in urban areas to apply, since most available channels will be distributed in this round.

PLAN

A coalition of media reform organizations, lead by the Prometheus Radio Project, is planning an unprecedented outreach effort to mobilize social justice organizations to seize the airwaves.

Prometheus will be focusing on social justice organizations with intensive outreach, application, and station building support.

VISION: Thousands of participatory radio stations throughout U.S. cities, amplifying local, grassroots voices, and opening up the debate.
